Bikes and Scooters

Many of our staff have come to me concerned this week with the amount of children we have coming to school on bikes and scooters with no helmets on. We want to keep our children safe and would strongly encourage your child to wear a helmet when on a scooter or bike.

Kindness Challenge

Thank you to everyone who has donated cereal boxes this week ready for our domino extravaganza on Monday. If you haven't brought in a cereal box yet, there is still time to bring one in on Monday morning, ahead of the challenge in the afternoon.

Poetry Week

This week has been poetry week in school and we were lucky enough to have poet and performer Ian Bland visit us for a whole school assembly and to deliver poetry workshops in KS2. The children (and staff) had a fantastic day learning new skills, whilst having lots of fun along the way! During the workshops with Ian they wrote a poem in the same style of one of his poems. They had to carefully consider the number of syllables and use of rhyme and rhythm. At the end of the day, Ian stayed behind for a book signing with the children.

King Charles III

In other news, on November 14th, we will be celebrating the birthday of our King, Charles III, we will be inviting everyone in school to wear red, white and blue. The day will be filled with a mix of lessons about the King and fun activities, this will end with the children parading through the corridors and into the hall for a whole school rendition of God Save the King. There will be a party lunch and prior to this special day, we will be launching our 'design a birthday card for the King' competition, we will be sharing the winners after our big parade! It will be an amazing day filled with fun and celebration and something to look forward to after the half term break!

I hope everyone has a lovely weekend.
